COUNCIL PROPOSES STUDENT TAX AS FINANCE SOLUTION

ORGANIZATIONS SUBMIT BUDGETS

Plan Offers Assistance to Campus Activities at Low Cost to Students

At the meeting of the Student Council held last Thursday evening, Curtis Funston was elected vice-president; Walter Calderwood, secretary; and Trygve Christiansen, treasurer. Committees on the proposed student tax and freshman rules were elected. With Walter Calderwood as chairman, Hollister Sturges, and John Smet are investigating the possibilities of the blanket tax. The committee on freshman rules is composed of John McGraw, chairman, Edward Tuttle, and Leland Partridge.

The main topic of concern discussed by the governing body was the proposed student tax in support of campus organizations and projects. The precarious financial condition of several organizations was cited in pointing out that something must be done to assist these groups in giving the best possible service to the student body.

It was pointed out that it is a minority which supports the majority of these organizations at present while the whole student body benefits from their patronage. If all students contributed toward the maintenance of these groups, it was held that the individual contribution would be very small and no great burden on the average student.

The Committee is now compiling facts and budgets of the following student projects in order to determine what would be a reasonable and fair individual contribution: THE NEW HAMPSHIRE, the Outing Club, Christian Work, the Student Government, and Class Dues. Tentative budgets are being submitted by each organization and will be submitted to the student body by the Student Council at an early date.

It was agreed that the student body would be adequately protected in its interests by having the collection of this tax entrusted to the University at each registration day. At this time each student would pay one-third of his year's tax. The total amount collected would be divided among the several organizations to benefit according to their approved budgets. It was held that through (Continued on Page 4)

Thousand Dollar Gift for Library

A copy of an etching by Louis Orr, the only living American to have work in the Louvre in Paris, and approximately 125 books from the Yale University press have been added to the Library through the generosity of an unknown donor, Mr. Miller, Librarian, told a New HAMPSHIRE reporter today.

This unknown person gave $1,000 which was to pay for half the books, provided the Library used a like sum to pay for the rest. Not quite the whole sum was used.

The books are varied, part being new books and part older standard works. They were all selected for their literary value and for their value to instructors. The etching, which is of the National Capital in Washington, will be framed and hung in the Library.

Rain Fails to Halt May Day

Approximately four hundred mothers registered last Saturday for the Eighth Annual Mother's Day observance. Mothers registered upon arrival in Durham and were conducted on tours of the University buildings and classrooms. Classes were open to the mothers and instructors extended a cordial reception to them.

At eleven o'clock the R. O. T. C. held a regimental parade on Memorial Field. At twelve forty-five the guests and their sons and daughters gathered for luncheon in the Commons Dining hall.

Saturday afternoon's entertainment which consisted of the Annual May Day pageant and two short plays, Robin Hood and Pardners' Tale from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales were enacted after a brief interruption in the program caused by a heavy downpour of rain. The program, however, went off as scheduled.

Mrs. Charles Harvey Hood officiated at the crowning of the May Day queen, Miss Phebe Graham of Lebanon, N. H. She was assisted in the ceremony by students of the University. Her aids presented the following dances after the crowning of the queen: Handkerchief dance, Fencer's bout, Milkmaid's Dance, Jester's Dance, Archery contest, and the Elves' and Fairies' Dance.

Officers who supervised the program were as follows: Miss Irma Bowen in charge of the wardrobe, and Miss Hoban of the Women's Physical Education department who supervised the dances. Dean Ruth J. Woodruff was the supervisor of the production. Edward Blewett, executive secretary of the University served as general chairman.

TARGONSKI TO HEAD AA STAFF

Varsity Relay Made Letter Sport—Rifle Team to Receive Insignia

Nominations made at the annual meeting of the Athletic Association were voted upon, Friday, May 19, with the following results: Joseph Targonski, President; Brewster Koehler, Vice-president; Marjorie Horton, Secretary; Frederick Martineau, student representative; and Thorsten Kalijarvi and Justin Wellman, faculty advisors.

Joseph B. Targonski, '34, Worcester, Massachusetts, Kappa Sigma, is majoring in general arts. He has played varsity basketball and is a member of the pitching staff on the varsity baseball team. Brewster H. Koehler, '34, Manchester, Alpha Tau Omega, has also played varsity baseball and basketball. Marjorie B. Horton, '34, Dorchester, Mass., Alpha Xi Delta, majors in home economics. She has been an enthusiastic participant in physical education courses during her three years on campus. Frederick J. Martineau, '34, Portsmouth, Kappa Sigma, has played varsity Lacrosse and football. Thorsten V. Kalijarvi is associate professor of political science and Justin O. Wellman (Continued on Page 4)

McGUIRK CHOSEN EDITOR OF 1935 CLASS ANNUAL

Granite Released May 31— "Completely Renovated" Says Caminati of Year Book

THEME IS COLONIAL HISTORY OF DURHAM

Bresnahan, Eiseman, and Clement Among Members of 1935 Staff

Delfo Caminati, editor of the 1934 GRANITE and student council head, has appointed Robert J. McGuirk as Editor-in-chief of the 1935 GRANITE. The other officers are as follows: Arthur Learnard, Business Manager; John Reed, Sales and Advertising Manager; Marvin Eiseman, Managing Editor; Gladys Clement, Photographic Editor; Ruth Bresnahan, Woman's Editor; Raoul Reeves, Associate Editor; Muriel Bradbury, Associate Editor; and Cosmos Ansara, Associate Editor.

McGuirk is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. The former editor, Mr. Caminati, says, "I believe Robert McGuirk to be a very capable young man. He has worked on THE NEW HAMPSHIRE. He is well-known in campus circles, and he has been a most efficient 'heeler' on this year's GRANITE."

Caminati announced that the 1934 GRANITE would be released on Wednesday, May 31st. He says, "From cover to cover, the 1934 GRANITE has been completely renovated and will embody several new features: a beauty section, a snapshot section, and an enlarged athletic section of 65 pages, and a 'We Nominate for Oblivion' section. I hope that the latter will not be taken too seriously by any students involved."

SCABBARD AND BLADE INITIATES

Thirty Men Join Honorary Military Fraternity—Officers Elected For Year

On Wednesday, May 15, the annual initiation banquet of the Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military science society, was held in the President's dining room at Commons.

Thirty members were present including the men who were pledged during the past year. The guests at the dinner were Captain Williams, Lieutenant Jordan, Lieutenant Anderson, and Lieutenant McGraw. Following a steak dinner the guests gave short talks.

At a meeting preceding the initiation banquet officers for the coming year were elected for the F Company, Sixth Regiment. Allan Armstrong, Lambda Chi Alpha, was elected President, thus taking the rank of Captain. Charles Graffam, Lambda Chi Alpha, was elected Vice-President with the rank of first lieutenant. Fred Martineau, Kappa Sigma, was elected treasurer and second lieutenant. The first sergeant and secretary is to be Harrison Chesley of Lambda Chi Alpha.

The initiation ceremony was held in the men's gymnasium after the banquet. The following were initiated: Allan Armstrong, Harrison Chesley, Charles Graffam, Emery Davis, Sydney Gibson, Robert Haphey, William King, Fred Martineau, Willard Parker, Alvah Swain, and Robert Prendergast.

MASK AND DAGGER'S "LADIES OF THE JURY" AND RENARD'S ORCHESTRA FEATURE WEEK-END

LONG AWAITED "LADIES OF JURY" SCORES SUCCESS

Large Cast in Sparkling Courtroom Satire of Mask and Dagger

DORIS FOWLER IN MRS. FISKE'S ROLE

Freshmen Show Promise In First University Appearances

by John Humphrey Cavendish

We did not see Mrs. Fiske's creation of the role of Mrs. Livingston Baldwin-Crane in the original production of Fred Ballard's "Ladies of the Jury," nor the same role as interpreted by Edna May Oliver for the motion pictures, but we sincerely doubt whether either actress could have improved appreciably upon the performance of Doris Fowler as Mrs. Baldwin-Crane in Mask and Dagger's presentation in Munkland Auditorium last night. We are speaking, of course, in relative mood, being thoroughly aware that an actress with thirty or forty years of stage experience behind her is apt to be better fitted both physically and in maturity of manner for the role of a society matron than is a freshman in college. However, this does not detract from the merits of Miss Fowler's performance which, considered purely from the standpoint of dramatic interpretation, came very near to being flawless. We confess that in the early stages of the first act Miss Fowler impressed us as being a little uncertain of her powers and tried a bit too hard to be convincing, but as the play progressed and she began to feel the appreciation of her audience, her lack of confidence left her, and by the fall of the final curtain hers was the triumph of a Rachel.

We could dwell for many paragraphs upon the excellence of Miss Fowler's performance, but it would be altogether an unworthy review that neglected to mention the strong support offered by the remaining members of the cast.

As Mrs. Gordon, defendant in the trial, Carolyn Welch, another freshman, put sympathy into an extremely difficult role and rendered it admirably. But for a slight awkwardness of movement, easily attributed to the emotional strain of such a part, Miss Welch executed her assignment with a finish worthy of her powers. (Continued on Page 2)

Youthful Unemployed Are Real Victims Of Economic Depression

by James Burch

A friend of mine is working at a gasoline filling station, one of the thousands in the huge chain of a large corporation. When I visited him a few weeks ago, I expected to find him cheerful and industrious, because for long, dreary months before he had assumed the role in which I discovered he had been unemployed. I shocked me a bit when I discovered him to be despondent, cheerless, and cynical. He had lost weight, too. Though normally tall and lean, he looked leaner than I had ever before seen him. Haggard, too, with dark rings under his eyes. Naturally, I said nothing about these things, but instead carried on what I hoped was a suitable conversation, striving to adapt myself to his mood, which was black indeed.

Position Insecure

He hates his job, he told me, hates it because of the over-bearing attitude of his employers and the "beastly" small wage they pay him, sixteen dollars for seven days' work, ten hours a day. As if this were not enough, he is expected to devote several evenings a week to canvassing the vicinity around his station for local trade. Of if he chances to be pumping gas at night, as is the case every alternate week, he is expected to do such canvassing during the day. The superintendent of the district pays a daily call, arriving at a different time each day, so that the employees will not acquire the habit of anticipating his visits. During these visits an inventory of the gasoline and oils is taken, all shortages being charged to the man on duty, to be withheld from his pay at the end of the week. On account of the large graduations on the measuring rods, estimates by eye are necessary, and, peculiarly, these always turn out to the advantage of the corporation. Consequently, at the end of the week my friend is always certain to lose anywhere from twenty-five cents to a dollar, more or less, out of his salary,

MIL. SCI. DEPT. LOSES OFFICERS

Williams, McGraw Leave for Camp Devens Re-forestation Center—Others to Go

Captain Norman P. Williams and Lieutenant James F. McGraw left last Monday for Camp Devens where they will be stationed until ordered to leave for re-forestation camps for the summer. On Monday, May 29, Lieutenant Lewis P. Jordan and Lieutenant George B. Anderson will leave for Fort H. G. Wright and Camp Devens respectively where they will await orders for their assignments during the summer.

Captain Williams, Infantry, has been in the service of the University for five years and has greatly endeared himself to this community in the opinion of the students and administration. He is a member of the Men's Club, faculty committee, boy scout committee, and has been connected with the Parent-Teachers' Organization.

Lieutenant McGraw, A.B., Infantry, is now in his third year of employment here, and is a member of the Men's Club.

Lieutenant Jordan, Infantry, is in his second year of service in this community. Lieutenant Anderson, B.S., Coast Guard Artillery Corps, has spent four years in the local Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Lieutenant Colonel Putney, Coast Guard Artillery Corps, has made the necessary arrangements for the remaining two weeks of activities.

TRUSTEES PASS FRAT DEBT BILL

Casque and Casket Draws Regulations Compelling Seniors to Pay Frat Debts

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Board of Trustees in their annual meeting, Casque and Casket has passed regulations regarding the satisfaction of fraternity board and room bills by graduating seniors.

The purpose of this resolution is to aid in assuring all fraternities of sound financial backing insofar as running their houses is concerned. A draft of this resolution had already been submitted to the fraternities and favorably voted upon.

Members of this year's graduating class are not affected by the rule. The ruling will, however, be in force over the graduating class of 1934 and succeeding classes.

A plan for administration of the new regulation has been drawn up by Casque and Casket to read as follows:

Scope of Plan
The plan shall apply to all students who are candidates for graduation in 1934 and thereafter.

Administrative Machinery
Each fraternity shall establish a committee which shall include a faculty or alumni adviser or advisers, the President of the House and such other members as a fraternity may determine. A list of the names of the members of the committee shall be submitted to the Dean of Men not later than October 1, 1933.

Functions of Committee

1. This committee shall act for the fraternity and shall see that a separate account is kept for board and room bills; and that the funds collected for board and room are expended for these purposes. To do this it is suggested that separate item or items be entered on each man's bill covering board and room bills and that the receipts indicate the amount of money paid for board and room.

2. This committee shall supervise or prepare all bills and the lists of members and former members whose room and board bills are unpaid. The committee within the limits of this proposal shall determine when and under what circumstances such bills shall be satisfied.

3. Procedure of the Committee.
(1) On or before October 15th of each year, each fraternity desiring the (Continued on Page 2)

JUNIOR CLASS PRESENTS PROM TOMORROW EVE.

Semi-formal Dress Will be Permitted—Jaques Renard and 11-piece Band to Furnish Dance Music

ZIEGFELD MUSICAL STAR ON PROGRAM

Renard to Play for Hour Concert Program—Camel Hour Music Will be Featured by Band

According to an announcement by William Sims, '34, Chairman of the Junior Prom committee, men students going to the Prom tomorrow evening may wear the semi-formal dress consisting of white flannels and blue coats.

Although the Prom has been advertised as formal, the change has been made to accommodate students who cannot afford the rental of a tuxedo, Sims declared.

Jaques Renard and his NBC Camel Hour band will furnish the music for the concert and dance. Renard, a popular radio favorite featured with the renowned Tony Wons on a national radio hook-up, will bring an eleven piece band and a soloist Ann

Jaques Renard

Boland, former Ziegfeld Follies musical star. The feature of the evening's program will be the one hour concert program by Renard and his orchestra. Music played during this concert hour will consist of the selections featured by Renard on the Camel Hour. After completing his spring tour which will carry him to Atlantic City for two weeks, Philadelphia, and Cleveland, Renard will sail with Morton Downey in July for London where they have a six week's engagement at the Cafe de Paris.

Sims announced that the gymnasi-um, including the entrance will be attractively decorated along the pattern of a Spanish patio.

Renard will bring his own amplifiers with his orchestra which will greatly add to the reception. The dance lasts until two o'clock on Saturday morning. There will be a half hour's intermission at 11.15. Free checking and refreshments consisting of ice cream during intermission and punch throughout the evening are included in the subscription price of $3.85, tax included. A charge of $40 (Continued on Page 2)

ON WORKING FOR AN EDUCATION

According to a recent survey, approximately forty per cent. of the students in American colleges work their way through, wholly or in part. Of this number perhaps one-third receive no outside help, all of which brings up the question "Is it worth it?"

It is an everyday occurrence to hear of some student making the supreme sacrifice in some way or another to earn an education. Is it worth the sacrifice these students are forced to make? We do not doubt their courage and determination but rather we highly commend it. But today, the popular conception that a college education is the lone key to success is being discredited on all sides. No longer do the press agent theories of the value of a sheepskin hold. Fifty years ago, we accepted a college education as something that was universally accepted and considered it as a process by which thought was developed.

However, the really sad part of the whole situation is the means by which a vast army of young men, and women, too, have to go about earning their way through college. For instance, take the student who works for eight hours during the afternoon and night at a college drug store. What inspiration is he able to absorb from a lecture at say, nine o'clock the next morning? We would ask you to consider the case of the man who is forced to hurry from his classes in order to make deliveries for a cleaning company, and then perhaps wait on table for two hours before he is able to get a meal. How can he possibly get the full benefit from a class in sociology?

But on the other hand it may be said that in general the average grades of the working students have been found to be higher than the students who did not have to work. Perhaps they do their outside work while other students are engaged in some form of amusements. Personally, we think it is after all, worth it, without taking into consideration, the degree. Its chief value lies in the training which it affords for future battles. It is with a deep sense of respect that we admire the working college student.

THE DUTCH TREAT DATE SYSTEM

The Pan Hellenic organization at the University of South Dakota, in line with other universities, has initiated a "dutch-treat" date system, whereby the girls pay their own way to certain dances. To the man who clings to the tradition of chivalry, such a system is unthinkable. Viewed in the light of present-day tendencies, however, this is but the trend of the times.

There was a time when a woman's only place was in the home, and man, the breadwinner, was the only sex possessed of money. Now, however, conditions are radically different. Women are engaged in practically every line of business, competing with men. In most cases they receive salaries equivalent to those received by men, and in some cases they receive larger salaries. Why, then shouldn't a self-supporting independent woman carry her share of an evening's expenditure?

We know what an ultra-conservative, tradition-ridden animal the average male is and therefore we prophesy that this system will never become very popular. If the ladies want it, however, we can find no objections to it.—Minnesota Daily.

STUDENT-FACULTY FORUM

Last week Professor Speight of Dartmouth conducted a forum upon the question of student-faculty relations in the Commons Organizations room. We had been sitting back pretty well satisfied with our handling of the student-faculty problem until this talk. Since that time the majority of us are convinced that there is great room for improvement in this field.

Fortunately, the machinery for improvement along this line has already been created in the student advisory committee to Dean Jackson. With an organization such as this assisted by groups from the other colleges permanent steps might be taken for the establishment of a joint forum which would combine students and faculty.

The great difficulty in any movement such as this is the providing of the initial impetus. Frankly we believe that that impetus should come from the student body themselves; however, since students may be somewhat fearful and hesitant in pushing forward in this manner, we suggest that the advisory committee work out with the dean a definite and congenial method of approach.

Long Awaited "Ladies of Jury" Scores Successful

In his first appearance since "Roland's Wild Oat," and incidentally his last, Harold Waite, senior, more than satisfied the audience's desire for clever satire in his portrayal of Mr. Dazey, real-estate-man-extraordinary and polished man-about-town. Professor Hennessy has long sought the ideal role for Mr. Waite's particular form of expression. He found it in Mr. Dazey.

Thomas Dingree, also appearing in Mask and Dagger for the last time, added another triumph to his long list, this one in the field of comedy. Mr. Pingree has played in many varied roles and his interpretation of Alonzo was the best touch of comedy in the entire production, and in our opinion, his best piece of work with Mask and Dagger.

In a new type of role from the usual "milady" pieces that have fallen to her, Miss Irene Couser as the inimitable Mayme Mixer, ex-chorus girl, gave a refreshing performance which blended perfectly with the wise-guy monkey stunts of Tony as presented by Joseph Toolin. Miss Couser and Mr. Toolin gave as graceful a rendition of the Bowery dip as we could hope to see.

Bringing more distinction to the freshman class and its wealth in acting material is Charles Ross as Pressley. Ross was entirely convincing, and we suspect that Professor Hennessy will knock on his door many times in the future with similar parts.

Charles York and Bertram Tower, both appearing with Mask and Dagger for the first time, showed considerable promise and handled their parts like trouper. The same might be said for Lilliane Mathieu as Mrs. Maguire, Charlotte Taylor as Miss Pratt, Frances French as Mrs. Dace, and Margaret Rossell as Cynthia. Miss Taylor in particular not only showed natural talent but gave a carefully studied interpretation, her priggish mannerisms completely delighting the audience.

Much more could be said for the work of Francis McSwiney, Frank McGrath, Donald Dunman, Helen Henderson, Allen Backer, Edith Raymond, and Raymond Adams, but space is the master. Let it suffice that their performances left little to be desired. And last, may we commend Professor and Mrs. William G. Hennessy for another Mask and Dagger production that, while retaining the charm of amateur theatricals, has the finish of a professional production.

The patrons and patronesses for the Prom are as follows: President and Mrs. Edward M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Thorsten Kalijarvi, the Rev. and Mrs. Fred S. Buschmeyer, and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Langley.

While the socially conscious write in the rhythm of Jacques Renard and lesser tuba tooters this week-end the non femme addicts will betake themselves to their various homes for the longest week-end the University has ever known.

Here's one for the mem book. Right on top of the stern non-beer ruling of the deans comes the information that Raymond C. McGrath (the man you pay your money to) was seen buying two beer mugs and the makings for ten gallons of the noxious stuff. Later reports revealed that there should have been a root in front of the beer.

When you thumb the pages of your year book (if you are unlucky enough to be a junior or if you have the forty-five anyhow) you can think with pride that Dictator Mussolini is straight-arming his way through this very same book. You see Benito rates a free copy because he went to school with the editor's uncle.

Here's a poem for the love-lore swains whose would-be's are far away. It's called I'm True
I'm true.
Are you
True to Me too?

When the 1933 graduate finally clutches his hard-earned sheepskin let us hope he finds a meal-ticket inside. It looks as though he might need one.

For Men Only—A co-ed at Marshall college will marry the first man she finds dumb enough to think her "the grandest girl in the world." Unfortunately, we can't even tell you whether she has a job or not.

For Comfortable Co-ed Only—Men at the same Marshall college say that a wife should be "pleasingly plump" and have baby blue eyes and dark hair—not permanently waved. For the benefit of the home economics majors cooking ability was placed as a secondary factor—but admitted essential.

While you're still trying to recover from the shock of having that holiday it would be a good idea to take in the latest Mask and Dagger production. We understand that six men and six women are in quite a daze in that.

It will soon be time for the graduates to be looking for a nice cosy nest to feather with their sheepskins.

From the ability shown by a certain Mr. McSwiney in "Ladies of the Jury," it is very evident that Louis will have an able successor whenever he decides to retire.

In Los Angeles, the junior college co-eds keep little black books in which every eligible male is listed and classified with scientific precision. Rice Institute co-eds classify unsuspecting males into these categories: best necker, worst necker, best kisser, worst kisser, biggest tightwad, freest spender, the man I would rather be seen with, and the man I don't want to be seen with.

All of which makes us wonder whether our own co-eds are as efficient as that—maybe we've been missing something.

(7) Any other question or problem concerning the administration of this policy shall be determined by Casque and Casket and the Dean of Men unless otherwise provided.

Alumni Notes

Word has been received in the Alumni Office of the sudden death in Springfield, Vermont, on May 10, of James H. Griswold, '20. He was ill less than a week and died at the Springfield hospital of septic pneumonia and complications. He was 39 years of age. Mr. Griswold was born in Springfield, March 20, 1894. He graduated from Springfield High School, then entered the University. Had not the World War intervened, he would have graduated in 1918, but he enlisted in the Field Artillery, saw foreign service, rose to the rank of first lieutenant, and returned to win his degree in 1920. Following his graduation he taught school in Sunapee, Chelsea, Vt., and Warner, N. H. For a short time he worked for the Jones and Lamson Machine Co., in Springfield before becoming a teacher of mathematics in the local high school in 1923. On August 6, 1926, he married Miriam Sprague of Bolton, Mass., who survives him. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Jennie Griswold, of Springfield. Editorially the Springfield Reporter writes of him, "There was more than a usual degree of common-sense, courage, and loyalty in 'Jim' Griswold; a common-sense outlook on life, the courage of well thought out convictions and loyalty to those people and those things surrounded by his interest, Springfield High School has lost a splendid teacher, the High School students have lost a staunch supporter, and many of us about town have lost a loyal and sympathetic friend. The Reporter joins the host of friends who mourn with Mrs. Griswold the untimely death of a great little man."

Harold F. Peavey, '13, was elected president of the Connecticut Valley Branch of the Association at a meeting held at the home of Curtis P. Donnell, '24, on Saturday night, May 20. W. Raymond Whitehouse, '32, was chosen vice-president, and G. Donald Melville, '20, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The business meeting was conducted by Elwin H. Forristall, '97, retiring vice-president. The Alumni Secretary, Harry Page, spoke on University activities. A social hour followed the business session after which a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Donnell, mother of Curtis.

Welcome news from Fred W. Hall, '18, president of the Nashua Branch, was the announcement that the Nashua group have held three meetings this year and are planning for another on June 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert D. Kimball, '24, on Dartmouth street, Nashua. On March 1, the club met at the home of Eloise Ledoux, '29, with eight members present. On April 3, the members met at the home of Isabel Dionne with about 28 present. On May 8, the club met at the Community Rooms in Hollis with 36 to 40 members present. Congratulations to the Nashua Club from the Alumni Office!

'26—We have just learned that for some time Ruth McIntosh has been Mrs. Donald F. Grant and is now living at 81 Ellsworth Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

'27—Mrs. Oliver C. Sill has announced the marriage of her daughter, Alma Catherine to Harry M. Curtis, Jr., on April 19, in Exeter, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will reside in Exeter where "Tim" has a poultry plant.

'28—Dr. and Mrs. Percy W. Templeton announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Beaulier, to William P. Nelson on June 10 at six o'clock (standard time) in Irasburg, Vermont. After July first, "Bill" and Mrs. Nelson will reside at 22 Lockland Avenue, Arlington, Mass.

'29—Miss Elizabeth M. Reed became the bride of Maurice E. Bickford on May 20, in Newport, N. H. Mr. Bickford was attended by Frank Reed, '29. Mrs. Bickford is a graduate of the Keene Normal school, class of 1930, and is a teacher in the Newport schools. Mr. Bickford is employed as milk inspector in Laconia where the couple will reside at 299 South Main street.

cream background, and is being done by the Record Press of Rochester. At the top of each page is a running head depicting a piece of bark and a spinning wheel. Colored scenes of the University campus as well as the 30 full-page cuts add much to its general appearance.

Another attraction is the group of beauties in the Beauty Section. The judges of the contest were Fredric March and Clive Brook. These two gentlemen sent autographed pictures of themselves which have been placed immediately after the photos of the contest winners. There are several pages of ridiculous pictures of prominent students and a caricature of each sport captain. The photography was done by the Gherin Gallery of Needham, Massachusetts. ## Kappa Sigma Wins In Swimming Meet

With but two men scoring for them, the Kappa Sigma swimming team won the intra-mural championship on Tuesday at the University Pond. Theta Chi came in second, with Tau Kappa Epsilon third, Phi Delta Upsilon, fourth, and Phi Mu Delta, fifth.

Orgera won the hundred yard free style, got second in the fifty yard free style, and third in the diving contest to score nine points, and become the leading scorer of the meet. Pickard, with a second in the diving contest and a victory in the breast stroke event, was second high scorer, adding enough points to win the meet for Kappa Sigma. The scores were Kappa Sigma, 17; Theta Chi, 8; T. K. E., 7; Phi Delta Upsilon, 6; and Phi Mu Delta, 5.

Finalists in intra-mural baseball are Alpha Tau Omega and Kappa Sigma. Both of these teams completed their league games undefeated, and both won in the semi-finals. Alpha Tau Omega defeated Alpha Kappa E, and Kappa Sigma winning over Phi Delta Upsilon. The finals will be played off this week, and the winner of the all point trophy will be announced early next week, as tennis is approaching the semi-final matches.

EXETER WINS OVER KITTENS

Early Attack on Gaw Gives Academy Team Big Lead—Robinson Hits Home Run for Frosh

Jumping on the offerings of Gaw, the New Hampshire freshman pitcher, the Exeter nine drove in seven runs in the first two innings to defeat the Kittens, 9-6, in their game at Exeter, May 17th.

Gaw was unable to perform in his usual efficient style due to a strained muscle in his forearm and was replaced by Weir. Kitten left hander, who held the Exeter team well in check for the rest of the game.

The freshmen scored one in the first, two in the second, and three in the sixth when Robinson, the first baseman, drove out a smashing home run with two mates on base.

Bilodeau of the Exeter team starred in the field as well as at the bat where he collected three hits and a pair of walks in five at bats.

Pederzani, New Hampshire receiver, hit well with a single, double and triple to his credit.

VARSLITY LOSES TO SPRINGFIELD

McGraw Gives Five Hits—Walker Hits Triple to Drive in Only N. H. Score

Missing many fine opportunities to score, the University of New Hampshire baseball team lost a close game to Springfield at Brackett field Friday by the score of 2-1.

McGraw, on the mound for the Wildcats, was very effective and allowed but six hits, yet they were bunched sufficiently to allow the visitors to count the winning tally. Hanna was the leading stickler for New Hampshire, getting two clean hits, but he was not given much support by his team mates. A long triple by Walker, driving in the only N. H. run of the game, was the only other real hit of the day for the Blue and White.

Both teams scored in the fourth, with the Springfield team getting the winning run in the seventh inning. The Wildcats lost a big chance to score when Scanlan fell running out a hit in the ninth with the tying run on third. It was the seventh defeat of the season for the New Hampshire team.

Sports Slants

by Jimmy Dunbar

Congratulations to Ted Darling, the new New England mile champion. His victory was one of the most decisive of the meet, and he came close in the half mile, too. Losing to a star like Jordan, the B. C. ace, by such a close margin is nothing to be ashamed of. Darling will certainly be heard from in future meets.

Funston also made a great showing at M. I. T. He was forced to step at top speed to capture third in the high hurdles. Off to a bad start in the lows, his favorite event, he furnished one of the biggest thrills of the day by sweeping through the field to be barely nosed out by the great McLaughlin in a stirring finish. Hardly a foot separated the two men as they broke the tane in the fast time of twenty-four and two-fifths seconds.

The loss of Chippie Gaw from the freshman baseball team will be keenly felt, even at this late date. Gaw is the right handed half of one of the greatest pair of twirlers to represent the Blue and White in many seasons. His timely hitting will also be missed by the Wild Kittens. Gaw has an injured hand which will keep him on the bench for the remainder of the season. Coach Lundholm is fortunate in having a man of Churchill's caliber hanging around to send in if Billy Weir requires replacement. This trio will come in very handy on the varsity nine next season.

Those fans who took in the Brown freshman track meet last week saw a splendid example of high jumping. McShane of Brown and Ranchynowski of New Hampshire had a great duel, and the bar reached six feet before the New Hampshire man was forced to concede the victory to his opponent. However, Ranchynowski, who was elected captain of the team by the members of the squad before the meet, went on to win the broad jump and capture third place in both hurdle races.

The announcement awarding letters to the relay teams will be received with a great deal of enthusiasm by the student body as a whole. It was almost an unanimous desire of the students that these letters be awarded, and the action of the committee will meet with the wholehearted approval of anyone connected with sports in Durham.

Varsity batting averages give Moody the highest rank, with an average of over 400. Hanna is the second batsman, with White, a pitcher and Walker, shortstop, being next in order. Ellsworth and Truskoski are the only other men who are hitting over three hundred. Incidentally, White's hits include a home run, two triples, and a double, while Walker also has a home run, two triples, and four doubles to his credit.

Intra-mural athletics are rapidly drawing to a close. The fraternities still in the running are Alpha Tau Omega and Kappa Sigma. Failure to place in baseball cost both Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Chi, early favorites, a chance for permanent possession of the all-point trophy. As neither Alpha Tau Omega nor Kappa Sigma has won the trophy more than once, it will be in competition again next year, when the race for permanent possession becomes three cornered.

Connecticut Errors Aid in Wildcat Win—N. H. Gets Five Clean Safeties

Led by the tight pitching and hard hitting of White, star moundsman, the University of New Hampshire's baseball team won its second game of the season on May 17, defeating Connecticut Aggies by the score of 6-2.

White drove in the Wildcat runs with a home run and a triple, beside reaching first twice on bases on balls. Walker, shortstop, also contributed a home run to the cause. The New Hampshire team got by five hits, but they were bunched with passes by the Aggie twirlers. White gave seven hits, but he kept them scattered, except in the third inning, when the home team scored twice.

The Wildcats gave White perfect support, playing errorless ball in the field. On the contrary, Fields and Lipman of Connecticut, were forced to work with slender backing by the infield, five errors helping the Wildcat cause.

MOVIES, MUSIC AND TALKS AT '36 RALLY

Freshman Class Get-together was held in the Commons Trophy room last Monday evening. The class president, Samuel Willis, acted as host during the evening, introducing the speakers and entertainers, and he himself gave a short talk.

Ed Healy, '36, opened the program giving two tap dances with Carl Purinton accompanying him at the piano.

This was followed by movies of the University of New Hampshire Zoological Laboratory at the Isles of Shoals, given by Harry Page. The buildings, staff, and students of 1931 were shown, as well as pictures of a collecting expedition.

Mr. John S. Elliot, a member of the board of trustees, spoke to the group encouraging them to "crystallize University spirit." President Lewis supplemented Mr. Elliot's words, quoting from a philosophy in which loyalty is the central point.

More movies came next, these being of the 1932 May Day Pageant, and Mr. Page talked for a few minutes about the alumni association, after which Samuel Willis closed the meeting with a short pep talk, encouraging class spirit.

TUFTS DEFEATS NEW HAMPSHIRE

Extra Inning Battle Lost In Eleventh Frame 11-10 Hanna Drives Out Four Hits

A hard single to center field in the eleventh inning with two out and a man on third gave Tufts College an 11-10 victory over the University of New Hampshire Wildcats in a game played at Medford last week.

The game was a loosely played affair throughout, and both teams hit rather freely, the Wildcats getting fourteen hits while the Jumbos hit safely thirteen times. Hanna was the batting star of the day with four clean singles. Moody also hit well, collecting three hits in five trips to the plate. Borden with three singles and Woodworth with a home run and a single led the Tufts' attack, although it was Clayman's hit which drove in the winning run in that eleventh.

Tufts got off to an early lead by scoring four runs in the second inning. They added three more in the fifth and assumed what appeared to be a safe lead. However, the Blue and White sluggers were getting to Stafford, and they kept on plugging, coming up on even terms with the home team in the ninth by a spectacular rally, Moody and Toll producing the punch that was needed. They could not score in the extra innings, however, and the Tufts run was enough to win the ball game.

McGraw was on the mound for New Hampshire, but was replaced by Targonski after White pinch hit for him in the ninth.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT NEW HAMPTON 9-5

Settling down after a bad first inning, Billy Weir, southpaw ace of the New Hampshire Kittens, pitched his way to an easy 9-5 victory over the New Hampton nine at Brackett Field May 23rd.

The New Hampton boys scored three runs in the first inning on four hits, one of them a triple, but were unable to bunch their hits after this frame.

Weir sent thirteen of the visitors down on strikes besides collecting two fine hits for himself. Landry, Frosh shortstop, was the batting star with three fine bingles.

Thompson, of the visitors, pitched well but was given poor support in the pinches. The Kittens got to his offerings for five hits in the fifth which they converted into as many runs to sew up the game.

It has been learned that the condition of Norris Aldrich, '35, who met with an automobile accident a short time ago, is rapidly improving.

Theta Kappa Phi

A victrola party was held at the chapter house last Friday evening, May 19, and was well attended. Mr. and Mrs. Hausline were chaperones for this affair.

A large number of mothers were guests of the fraternity on Mother's Day. A tea was served them at four o'clock Saturday afternoon. Following this, a meeting of the Mother's Club was held, and new officers chosen.

Mrs. Lawler of Manchester, and Mrs. Gaffney of Nashua were also visitors at the fraternity house last Saturday.

Outing Club

An informal banquet of the Blue Circle Council was held on Thursday evening, May 18, at the Theta Chi house. This banquet was given to the Alumni Advisory Board of the Outing Club who have never met with the Council in a group before. Carl Lundholm acted as toastmaster, and those who spoke were: Clark Stevens, Stanley Shimer, Edward Y. Blewett, Edmund Hazeltine, ex-President Byron Rogers, and Jack Sturgess, President.

The officers, admitting they knew very little about the organization and functions of the Outing Club, expressed their desire to learn more about it and offered to cooperate with the Council in any way possible. Hollister Sturgess, President, mentioned some of the projects for the coming year and emphasized the necessity of each of the officers to do their work faithfully.

The Sphinx

There is to be a tea dance next Saturday afternoon from 3:30-5:30.

International Relations Club
Girls attended the regular meeting of the International Relations Club for the first time last Monday evening at the Phi Mu Delta house. The desirability of recognizing Russia was discussed. Vernon Schnare and Howard Hall opened the discussion. Plans for the New England International Relations Clubs to be held here next October were discussed. Martha Burns was elected Vice-President for next year.

The annual banquet will be held next Thursday evening, June 2.

the collection, distribution and auditing of these funds by the business office of the University, that the possibilities of inefficiency and mismanagement by irresponsible parties would be eliminated.

It is expected that the Committee will complete its investigations in the very near future, present its findings to the Council who will then present the plan formally to the student body for a vote. After the student body signifies approval, the plan will be submitted to the trustees of the University for final action.

KING KONG AT
FRANKLIN SUN.Story Based on Novel by Edgar Wallace and M. C.
Cooper—Fantastic and Mysterious Plot

Merian C. Cooper and Edgar Wallace's fantastic story, "King Kong" starring the well known Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, and Bruce Cabot in RKO-Radio's thrilling production will be shown at the Franklin theater on Sunday, May 28.

King Kong is based upon a situation which arises when a mammoth ape becomes fascinated with a beautiful white woman he captures in the jungle. For her, he battles prehistoric monsters to death, and in the end makes an attack upon civilization itself.

Fay Wray plays the girl whose frail, golden beauty entrances the great beast's heart, for the first time in its seven million years of existence, since Kong has lived since the Jurassic Age. It is on the girl's behalf that he fights prehistoric dinosaurs and later panics a great city.

Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot portray the two adventurers seeking to get a motion picture of a legendary ape and to make a drama out of his reactions to the beauty of a woman.

The monster, King Kong, himself is fifty feet high, weighs more than fifteen tons, has arms and paws of the proportions of steam shovels and charges about with almost incredible speed and strength. Without a doubt, it is the most unusual picture with the strangest theme and daring plot of any picture produced this year.

hopes that some day he would be able to return to his unfinished schooling, but he has now definitely given up that idea. His two brothers and one sister are all college graduates. Always fond of books, he is at present very well read, and possessing a greater-than-ordinary conversational ability, he is able to discuss intelligently a great many topics of interest. Besides, he has a great deal of common sense, which, as most of us know, is not as common a thing as the terminology suggests.

Prospects Discouraging

What is the outlook for this young friend of mine? Pretty dismal, I am afraid. No matter where he turns, he will find that corporate employers are engaged in the age-old practice of exploiting labor, a practice which our new civilization was supposed to have done away with. But it is one way to maintain profits or to make them. By some corporations this practice is employed as a last-ditch policy by others, more unscrupulous, merely as a policy of taking advantage of all profit-making opportunities. At any rate, in view of existing labor conditions, it is a way which is comparatively safe from disturbance by social action. Legislation cannot be effective against such practices as long as a great portion of labor remains unemployed, because labor will compete with itself for the smallest crumbs thrown from the boards of capital—and corporate capital sees to it that the crumbs are indeed small.

Witness the present-day revival of sweat shops in New York City, in a state which has very strict minimum-wage laws. The workers in these shops are at present receiving an average wage of less than five dollars per week, according to the latest report published by the Secretary of Labor.

Clearly then, any change which my friend might make, granted that he could find another job, would certainly not do much to alleviate his present condition. Nor is there any indication that there will be a permanent improvement in the conditions of employment in the near future. During the depression corporations have sought to develop more efficient machinery, more economical methods of operation, and a greater movement toward large combinations, through interlocking directorates and stock control. When business picks up, these developments will permit a greater economy of production than ever before possible. In other words, employment will not increase commensurately with the new growth of industry. And the paltry wages of those who are lucky enough to have work will lag perceptibly behind the rise in prices which accompanies increased industrial activity, a fact which is to be found in any text-book on economic theory.

Of course, one might argue that new industries will appear, and that these will absorb the unemployed. This would be true enough, if it were not for the fact that existing industries look with disfavor upon the development of new enterprises. The big combinations of today will do all in their power, and that is a great deal to suppress new industries until the present markets have been exploited to their uttermost limits. It appears that progress is the enemy of progress.

Some day, of course, these new industries will spring up. But in the meantime, what is my young friend to do? Like most other men, he hopes that some bright day he will be able to marry, to settle down in an attractive community, and to devote himself to the pursuits of domesticity and good citizenship. However, such a plan requires a reasonable guarantee of future economic security, and present conditions do not seem to promise that at a very early date. This young man is now twenty-six years old. In a comparatively short time he will have passed the thirty-year mark, and it is much more difficult to start at the bottom in the thirties than in the twenties, granting that industrial recovery occurs by that time. Is it any great wonder that this young man has grown cynical?

Plight Universal
In this country today there are hundreds of thousands of young men of the same age and of relatively equal qualifications who are in the same sort of predicament. In fact, many of them are in a worse predicament, since they have no work at all. What is to be the fate of this struggling legion? Rolling close upon their heels is the ever-increasing tide of the competition of the high-spirited younger generation. Before them stretches a mighty distance to the far-off horizon of a returning prosperity. That wearisome distance must be covered before they will be able to discern the paths that lead upward into the hills of economic safety. And the tide behind them grows ever larger, nearer, more formidable.

At this juncture the older generation is moved to remark, "Have patience. Time will remedy your present troubles. And above all, be optimistic." But time only aggra-vates the situation. Man ages with time, and even the oldsters will agree that youth is the time to build for old age. It is very difficult to laugh, or to be patient, in the face of such facts. Moreover, the generation, which advises this, is one that has by now established itself on a family basis. There is no attempt here to belittle their economic difficulties, which in many cases are serious indeed. The point is that they have made themselves an integral part of a society whose very keystone is the patriarchal family. For this reason, society more readily lends a sympathetic ear to the citations of their troubles. With society's help, they will be able to weather the present storm, and good times will see them farther advanced on the roadway of life, with first preference of industry's new opportunities. Half their battle will be won when smoke again pours from the chimneys of our factories.

But the case for the twenty-six-year-olds is vastly different. For them to enter into married life at this time would be only to fly in the face of a destitute providence. In connection with this, it would be well to remember that, in general, the older generation tied their marital bonds only in times which were promising to future security. This our young economic victims will also strive to do when prosperity reigns again. The trouble is that the business cycle may not begin its rise soon enough to save them from wasting their most valuable years, years which should be devoted to building for the future in enforced idleness.
